CAN GROW RUBBER IN U. S.

Guayule, a Mexican Shrub from Which Rubber Is Produced, Will Grow in the Southwest States

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—With millions of motor cars over the world eating up tires, and warring Europe using rubber hospital supplies and boots in enormous quantities, the demand for rubber and its price are both reaching heights unprecedented. Wherefore Uncle Sam, through the bureau of standards, is making a special and very interesting study of rubber, with a view to standardizing the product.

This is always a long step toward cheapening any material and is one of the most important services that the government renders to industry. When the work is completed, the manufacturer of rubber will be able to order a certain grade of rubber and to know exactly what he is getting.

Test Market Goods
At present the bureau is experimenting extensively in the manufacture of rubber, and is also testing the manufactured rubber products now on market to see how well they are made, how honest the material in them is.

A complete rubber mill equipment has been set up at the bureau of standards, and every process of manufacture is being studied with a view to perfecting it. Perhaps the most important development to date is the nitric acid process which the bureau has evolved for the "reclaiming" of scrap rubber. By this process, old rubber may be made into a product that is better than some of the lower grades of fresh rubber. The importance of this discovery may be gauged from the fact that about 183,000 tons of scrap rubber from worn-out automobile tires alone will be put on the market in the United States this year. This particular pile of junk will be worth $25,000,000. Then there will also be about 50,000 tons of old rubber shoes and boots worth about eleven cents a pound, and a good many thousand tons of old air brakes, rubber hose, insulated wire, and other manufactures of rubber. In view of this immense crop of junk, and the extreme scarcity of new rubber, the bureau of standards can hardly render a greater service to the industry just now than by developing new ways of using this scrap.

SANTA YSABEL LEADER KILLED

Villa Lieutenant Who Over-saw Massacre of American Mining Men Is Shot

"DEATH TO GRINGOS"—VILLA

Leader Said to Have Sworn to Kill Every American Whom He Should Run Across

EL PASO, Tex., March 10.—A report of an American murdered by Villa soldiers and of Villa moving to reattack Columbus was received here today by telephone from J. B. Blair of Columbus.

According to Blair the Villistas raided an American ranch house west of Columbus early today and murdered the owner named Hopps.

COLUMBUS, N. M., March 10.—Believing a report that Francisco Villa at the head of 3,000 men was returning to carry out his threat to kill all Americans here, the residents of Columbus were thrown into a frenzy of excited fear shortly after noon today.

With the memory of Thursday's murder of seventeen American soldiers and civilians still fresh in their minds, not even the ordering out of the entire Thirteenth United States cavalry here had much of a quieting effect.

The Villistas were not in sight at noon, but they were reported to be within eight miles of Columbus.

Colonel Slocum was inclined to doubt the reports which were brought out by refugees, but took every possible precaution.

Fear of other Mexican raids gripped the border from Nogales, Ariz., to El Paso, Texas, today, following Francisco Villa's attack on Columbus yesterday which cost the lives of upwards of 100 of his followers and of 16 American soldiers and civilians.

Residents of Victorio, N. M., telephoned that a large band of armed bandits were reported approaching the town. The first battalion of 20th United States infantry from Fort Bliss, which arrived in Columbus during the night, proceeded at once to Victorio.

The reason more Americans were not killed, it was agreed today, was due to the villistas' looting. S. H. Burchfield, whom a squad of Mexicans robbed, escaped while they were arguing over the division of the spoils. The Mexicans abandoned a part of their loot on their retreat, closely pressed by the American troops.

While citizens today were inclined to berate the unpreparedness of the Thirteenth cavalry troops, asleep when the Villistas stole up and rushed shrieking into the center of the town, all praised the brave fighting by the outnumbered American soldiers.

Lopez Killed
Pablo Lopez, leader of the Villistas who slaughtered eighteen helpless American mining men at Santa Ysabel, January 10, was among the Mexicans found dead in the streets of Columbus, according to Johnson. A number of Mexicans, including Captain Garcia who was taken prisoner, identified Lopez's body.

Garcia also stated that Villa was attacking the American border cities to force American intervention.

A circumstance noted today in connection with the Mexican raid was that the United States soldiers took very few prisoners and these mostly were wounded.

Villa The Butcher Says He'll Kill All Gringos

COLUMBUS, N. M., March 10.—"Americans will suffer for Mr. Wilson's act in recognizing the bewhiskered Carranza," Villa stated after his defeat yesterday, to Julio Garcia, a Mexican cowboy arrived in Columbus, N. M., early today.

"I have only started my campaign against the Gringos. Wait, they will yet hear from Francisco Villa. I am going to invade the United States, burn cities and kill every 'Gringo' I find—men, women and children."

Garcia said he met Villa twenty miles south of the line and camped with his men.

THE PRESIDENT'S STATEMENT

"An adequate force will be sent at once in pursuit of Villa with the single object of capturing him and putting a stop to his forays. This can and will be done in an entirely friendly aid of the constituted authorities of Mexico and with scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of that republic."

MEXICAN BUREAU DECLARES IT WILL REQUIRE 30,000 MEN TO TAKE AND CRUSH VILLA

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Officials of the Mexican bureau of the state department today declared a force of from 25,000 to 30,000 men would be none too large to capture Villa.

"The crossing of an armed American force into Mexico to capture Villa," said one official, "will draw many thousands of ignorant Mexicans to the bandit leader's colors. They will only know from Villa's scattered followers that the 'gringos are coming.' Those who do not actually, join the Villa forces will remain behind to harass in every way possible the progress of the United States soldiers toward their goal."

Statement Taken as Intimation That Carranza Is Willing to Have Uncle Sam Do the Job

PRESIDENT TAKES PROMPT ACTION

At Meeting This Morning Secretary Baker Is Authorized to Cross Border with Large Force

WASHINGTON, March 10.—American troops are going into Mexico after Villa. President Wilson made this official announcement at the White House at 1:02 o'clock this afternoon.

The announcement followed a meeting of the cabinet which decided to authorize the sending of a punitive expedition across the border. At least five thousand troops will form the original force that will march into Mexico, it was stated at the war department.

When President Wilson and his cabinet met to determine the government's course, several members of the cabinet were committed to the belief that the first action should be "Get Villa, dead or alive."

President Makes Statement
The following statement was issued from the White house by the president:

"An adequate force will be sent at once in pursuit of Villa with the single object of capturing him and putting a stop to his forays. This can and will be done in an entirely friendly aid of the constituted authorities of Mexico and with scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of that republic."

President Wilson will not ask congress to act in the present situation, he indicated to Chairman Flood of the foreign affairs committee this afternoon.

Treaty Permits Troops' Entry.
He told Flood that under a treaty with Mexico it is proper for the United States to send troops into that country to punish bandits who cross into the United States and that, therefore, no congressional action is necessary.

Flood called a meeting of his committee to consider the Mexican situation.

The president also told Flood that the order to the troops today had been made without the advice or consent of Carranza because this government had been unable to get in touch with the first chief. The president expressed belief that in view of the circumstances and existing treaties there will be no objection from Carranza. The treaty upon which this government's military operations are based was first negotiated in 1882 and renewed from time to time.

Principal Provision.
The principal provision of the treaty follows:
"It is agreed that regular federal troops of the two republics may reciprocally cross the boundary line when they are in close pursuit of a band of savage Indians."

The administration is proceeding on the legal assumption that the outlaws are "Indians" in conformance with the treaty.

The treaty stipulated conditions, including that the boundary line shall be crossed "only in unpopulated or desert portions, that notice shall be given if possible to civil authorities of the entered territory and that troops shall not establish themselves longer than is necessary to capture or fail to capture the savages."

Secretary Baker refused any statement as to the war department's plan on the action of the cabinet, but indicated that later he would likely have some statement.

Plan the Campaign
The American force will consist chiefly of infantry. There will be, however, at least 1,000 to 2,000 cavalry. There will also be included at least a detachment of field artillery and several batteries of mountain guns loaded on pack mules and especially adapted for the guerilla fighting anticipated in the hilly section

CARRANZA DEAD SAYS RUMOR TO STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, March 10.—A rumor reached the state department today that General Carranza is dead.

There was no confirmation. Another rumor reached the department to the effect that Carranza was in a prison in a rebel uprising.

There was no confirmation of this report. The department is endeavoring to locate the chief, but up to an early hour this afternoon had not succeeded.

NEW YORK, March 10.
Jpan Burns, Mexican consul general, said this afternoon that he had heard nothing of the report that General Carranza is dead.

Cable messages addressed to Carranza by the United Press in the last twenty-four hours have not been answered.

No Orders Received That Indicate Guard Is to Be Called Upon

"I have nothing to give out."

This was the non-committal answer of Captain Herman A. Rupp, chief of Company B of this city, when asked today if he had received any notification indicating that the national guard might be called into service in the present Mexican crisis.

"We have had no recent orders that could be traced to the Mexican situation," Captain Rupp said.

He would not comment further on the subject except to state that orders would come either from Adjutant General Orlando B. Halaway of Madison, or from Colonel Randolph A. Richards, of Sparta.

Captain F. H. Fowler, head of Company M, stated that his company had received no orders of any kind recently, aside from the regular routine orders.

SENATE TEMPEST CALMED IN FACE OF GRAVE ISSUE

War Resolutions Flare Up But Are Kept from Vote by Combination of Two Parties

ASHURST FLAMES IN HOT DANGER

Declares the Administration Was Considering Withdrawing All Troops from Mexican Border

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Tense with suppressed indignation, the senate this afternoon postponed action on the Columbus, N. M., outrage despite resolutions of war by Senator McCumber of North Dakota and Senator Fall of New Mexico, and a bitter speech by Senator Ashurst of Arizona.

That this government had exhausted every possible effort to keep from intervening but that its peaceful efforts have been worse than fruitless and have only emboldened the bandits to further atrocities, the McCumber resolution called for immediate action.

Without discussing his measure, McCumber allowed it to go to the committee on foreign relations.

Hold Up Action.
Chairman Stone, representing the administration and Senator Fall, its bitterest critic on the Mexican policy, joined in asking the senate to suspend action until the military had completed its activity and until fuller information of the outrage was received.

McCumber's resolution was put over, and Fall, after introducing his resolution asked for its reference until further information was had.

McCumber said he agreed fully with the position taken by Senator Stone.

Sensor Ashurst, on the other hand, demanded immediate action on the resolutions. He was defeated under a senate parliamentary rule.

Ashurst in Rage.
Senator Ashurst of Arizona, followed McCumber with a sensational charge that the senate and war departments had planned not more than five days ago, to remove troops

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

DETECTING DORIS

BY JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1916, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Sometimes, do you know, you watch me as if you were a detective," said Doris Jones, as she was crossing the campus of Dudley college with her classmate, Lawrence Smith. Doris was unusually young to be a senior, and Lawrence, who had entered Dudley on advanced standing only at the beginning of the last year, was unusually old. That is, he was at least twenty-six years of age, and in his care-lined face, his occasional nervous gestures, no less than in the way he wore his business-like clothes, he looked more like a successful young lawyer or broker than a college student.

"Honestly, you do look at me in the funniest way, sometimes," Doris persisted, although apparently Lawrence did not care to discuss the matter. "And I have seen you look at other people that very same way. You must be interested in human nature?"

"Yes, probably it is that," Lawrence seemed annoyed or at least a little disturbed. Later, after they had walked almost to the girls' dormitory where he left Doris, he said, "Sometime I shall tell you why I am so 'interested in human nature,' as you call it. You will be surprised, I am sure." And then, lowering his voice—"In the meantime, little girl, don't even for fun say anything to any one about that strange expression of mine."

There were several things about Lawrence Jones that seemed to make him stand out from the other men of his class at college in spite of his obvious effort to mingle with the men. In the first place, even the professors wondered why Lawrence was doing undergraduate work at all—there is no post-graduate department at Dudley. For in almost all his classes he seemed, with no apparent effort whatever, to surpass the other men in his class—not so much through actual studiousness, but because of his greater maturity.

Another thing that puzzled his classmates was this: Apparently, from his manner and habits, Lawrence Smith was never without money, still, from his first day in college, he accepted work that only the poorest students usually would have considered worth while. For instance, he acted as cashier during the late afternoon tea hour at the "Cozy Corner," a tearoom where the girls of the college, and occasionally the men, dropped in for refreshments. He got merely a pittance for this work.

But these peculiarities were no stumbling block in the way of Smith's popularity. In fact, he was one of the most active officeholders of his class. He had been elected treasurer at the first class meeting of the year and treasurer of the athletic association, though he had been put up for vice president of that organization. That was strange, too, that he should have asked for the lesser honor when he had actually been elected to fill the vice president's chair. His excuse was that he liked to keep books and that he didn't know the first thing about presiding. Well, anyway, he made a good accountant and never had the books of any college class or any other year's athletic association been better kept.

It was the evening of one of the first class dances of the season and Doris Jones and Lawrence Smith were "sitting out" one of the several dances that Lawrence had been permitted to mark on Doris' order. Doris sighed deeply.

"I do wish you would tell me now all about yourself," she said. "Of course I like you—yes, you know I love you—but it is hard not knowing all about you. Do you know, I sometimes feel as if I didn't know your name." She stopped suddenly and turned away from him.

"Suppose we finish out this dance," he tried to be at ease, but clearly he was not.

"Wait a minute," putting out a small hand which she closed around his wrist, "Lawrence, in that book of Stevenson's that you lent me I found the initials 'J. T.' I really do sometimes wonder whether your name is Lawrence Smith."

"Can't you trust me—enough to know that it is all right—anyway?"

"Yes, yes, I can. Promise that."

"I am a conductor on the Scranton Ry., and became run-down and tired out, lost my appetite, flesh and strength, so I had to lose a good deal of time from my work. A friend told me to try Vinol. I did so and rapidly regained health and strength, and yesterday I was weighed and it showed I had gained 26 pounds since taking Vinol. ORANGE BLANC-MANGE

Heat a pint of orange juice; then add enough sugar to sweeten, as some fruits need more than others. Pour in gradually two level tablespoons of cornstarch wet with two tablespoons of cold water and boil until very stiff; then slowly turn the hot mixture or molds and fill with the hot mixture. When chilled, serve with milk flavored with grated orange peel, or a custard made of yolks of eggs, a pint of milk and flour sufficient to make it creamy. Cook over hot fire until the custard coats a spoon; flavor with grated orange peel.

no special motive in adding this, but Lawrence had reason soon to attach special significance to the words.

In fact, it was the very next day that Doris passed Lawrence coming out of the office of the president of the college, the latter following the young man to the door with a degree of deference that was not usually extended to mere students.

"I shall co-operate with you in every way," she heard him say. "I understand your reason for not taking me into your confidence before."

When Doris passed Lawrence he started with a peculiar pained expression that she had never seen before. But he merely bowed cordially enough and passed on. That evening, after dinner, he called at the girls' dormitory and asked to talk with her in one of the small private reception rooms. Usually they chose a country walk in the afternoon for their confidential talks. These little reception rooms were especially unattractive to Doris.

"A few days ago," he began, "you promised to have confidence in me, and at the time I promised to have confidence in you. Doris it would take a good deal to shatter that confidence. You know I love you—and I always shall."

Doris first blushed and then turned pale. She was distinctly ill at ease and more so because she could see that Lawrence was scrutinizing her intently.

"I wish you would tell me a little about yourself, Doris. Be sure that I shall never reveal anything of it. Let me repeat, first, what I have already learned from you. You were born and brought up in that little lumber community you told me about. You went to the nearest high school five miles away. Your father was poor—he had lost considerable in California oil mines, I believe you told me. He still lives simply in the old place. Now is that all true, Doris?"

"Yes, it is, and some time you will go back with me. I want you to know and like my father."

Lawrence frowned slightly. "I hope the meeting will be a pleasant one. You won't be hurt if I ask you another question. Is your father paying for your education?"

Suddenly Doris blushed and for the first time showed real annoyance. "Yes," she said. "That is—no; he is not."

"From whom do you receive it?" Doris refused to answer. Lawrence pleaded with her in vain, but no more would she say.

"This is very hard for me," said Lawrence at length. "But since you won't help me by telling all you know about it I am obliged to make a thorough search of your room. The president of the college authorized it. Let me do it informally this way and then I shall be able to help you out of what may be a very serious matter. I had hoped that you would clear the matter without this—but you have apparently some reason why you don't want to tell me the truth. Be sure that I will do every thing, even to the limit, to get you out of this."

"More than ever you talk like a detective," Doris flung at him.

"I am a detective in the employ of the Federal government. It is a counterfeit case—" he was still studying her face, but she showed no added embarrassment. "My real name is James Titus. We traced these counterfeit bills to this town, then to work it down. It was about four years ago that the bills began to circulate, but we didn't get around to looking the matter up till last summer. A similar issue of counterfeit bills had suddenly stopped about eight years before. I've watched every bill that has been paid into you will trust me too." Doris had the class treasury, the athletic association, the tea room and the drug store. That is how I traced it to

you. I have suspected you for only a week."

Trembling, and with a face now pale, now crimson, Doris led James Titus to her room in the dormitory. She opened her wardrobe and silently brought out a suit case, which she opened and from which she drew out a heavy metal box which she unlocked with a key she wore about her neck on a long locket chain.

James drew from the box a roll of bills and examined them carefully with a pocket magnifying glass. A look of satisfaction at having achieved the object of his quest first showed on his face, and then a look of pain as he looked at the dejected figure at his side.

"My father didn't send them. I wanted to go to college, no one knows how much. But then father lost his money and he couldn't send me. That was the summer before I was ready to come. Then one day when I was working out in one of the shanties about two miles from home in some woodland that father owned I found a trapdoor. I went down and there I found these. It was twelve hundred dollars—enough to take me through college. Of course I couldn't tell that they were not real. All I knew was that the cabin had been occupied by a queer old sort of hermit who had died without leaving any heirs. I know that for the few pieces of silver he left in his house we could find no claimant. I suppose it was very wrong of me, but I thought because I found that money it was mine. I am so sorry. Shall I have to be in prison all my life?"

The detective drew the frightened

girl toward him as if she had been a child making a confession.

"No one but you and I and the kind-hearted president of the college shall know. That can be arranged easily. When I make a confidential report of this to the authorities I am sure there will be no further investigation. In the meantime finish out your year here and then—the very first day you are through you must become Mrs. Jimmy Titus."

"Has that borrowing friend of yours dropped out of sight?" "Oh, no; he manages to keep in touch with me."

FRIEND OF FRENCH WITHDRAWS LIBEL SUIT IN ENGLAND

Paper Charged American Obtained English Army Secrets for United States

LONDON, March 10.—George Gordon Moore, Michigan and California millionaire, whose association with Sir John French at British army headquarters, led to much adverse criticism on Thursday withdrew his libel suit against E. Ulton and Company, proprietors of a number of newspapers which attacked him.

It was reported that the defendant agreed to furnish Moore with the circumstances under which the articles were published. Sir John French attended the hearing before the king's bench. Moore's lawyer said his client had long been an intimate of the British commander and visited him at headquarters in northern France.

The Manchester Evening Chronicle and other Hulton papers, took advantage of this fact, he said, to accuse Moore of obtaining English military secrets with the purpose of carrying them to the United States. Stories were printed that Moore's sister was a frequent visitor at the summer home of Ambassador Bernstorff on Long Island.

These charges, Moore's attorney said, were malicious inventions, but they did not originate with the Ultons.

Moore's counsel said reports that the American millionaire had visited Bernstorff on Long Island on his return from England were preposterous.

General French testified briefly in behalf of Moore. He said he and Moore had been on intimate terms for years and jointly occupy a house at Lancaster Gate.

He declared charges against Moore utterly groundless. "I absolutely deny it," testified General French. "I have the greatest confidence in Mr. Moore's integrity and his whole-hearted support of the allies."

HAVE DONE WITH BORDER TERRORISM

There seems little doubt that the United States government will undertake the suppression of outlawry in Northern Mexico. The consent and co-operation of the Carranza government will probably be secured if possible, but if that be denied it is apparent that Washington authority can not sit idly by while this country is invaded by bandits whose operations are made secure by the asylum afforded below the Mexican border. Carranza's failure to meet the situation negatives the idea that he will be able to do so in future, and we shall no doubt have recourse to our own means to protect our citizens.

The task which confronts the administration is not to be sniffed at. Mountain fastnesses in the infested section furnish protection to guerilla bands probably vastly more numerous than their operations suggest, and to dispose of these alone is no child's play.

But vastly larger will be the task in case the Mexican government denies Uncle Sam the right to proceed over the border. In that event we shall face actual warfare and shall engage armed forces capable of considerable fighting. The 1915 statistics credit Mexico with a war strength of 185,000 men. The present strength is of course a subject for speculation, since military operations during the year may have modified the situation, to what extent is indicated by the fact that the same authority gives the 1916 war strength as 86,000. It is probable that the discrepancy is due to the elimination of fighting men engaged in insurrection. The unorganized war strength of Mexico is given as upwards of three millions, and in that turbulent commonwealth no doubt the percentage acquainted with the gentle art of homicide is far greater than in the United States. It is understood that the Carranza forces are fairly well stocked with equipment and ammunition. Hardened by actual service, augmented by the gathering of rebels and outlaws of every description on behalf of a common enemy, this organization might at the outset put the available fighting force of the United States to something of a test.

There can be but one outcome of a war with Mexico. The United States will win. But the death toll and the financial loss will be heavy, and devoutly level-headed citizens hope that we may be enabled to afford ample and permanent protection to our border without becoming embroiled with the government of Carranza.

DOES HE SEE THE SAFER COURSE?

While serving well his ends in dealing with the belligerents, President Wilson's congressional endorsement was far from conclusive as to the internal issue it was presumed to settle. The St. Paul Dispatch thus interprets the situation:

It was not any issue of international law which turned the decision of the house of representatives on the McLemore resolution Tuesday afternoon. If a vote had been taken on the straight proposition of whether it were advisable or not to warn Americans from sailing on armed belligerent ships, the result would have been very near what Champ Clark said it would be several days ago—a vote of 2 to 1 in favor of the warning.

Perhaps the president realizes this, and will consent to be guided by the wide feeling that in demanding the right to bring this country to the verge of war upon a mooted academic issue he has asked much and assumed a grave responsibility. The tenor of Washington gossip gives hope of a solution considered impossible under the rigid stand of the state department but a few days since. Now there is talk of in what circumstances Germany's edict may be held a justified reprisal, whereas heretofore it had been held that, so far as a neutral was concerned, there could be no justified reprisal involving alteration of the letter of international law.

It will be well if the president, a truly able executive in the main, comes to feel that he is not omniscient. That he has kept us out of the war is his greatest political asset as well as his finest official achievement. It would be too bad were he to stumble mightily upon a small obstacle.

TARPOON SPRINGS

The Western coastal country of Florida is one of the most amazing natural color effects in the world. A land of pine and oak forest and cypress and palmetto swamp, intricately jigsawed and inlaid with lakes and rivers and bays, it is a poem in green and blue, marvellously matched and blended. Dark green are the pine-forests, and darker yet the live oaks; deep blue are the little lakes, and the slow moving streams that creep under arching tangles of forest far into the wilderness where the alligators bellow and the rare white ibises nest.

A brighter note—a glistening, fiery blue—is struck by the waters of the gulf, placid in the bright Florida sunlight rolling in easy swells to break upon a narrow, snowy beach, washed immaculate by their endless laving.

Within a few miles of salt water, at a point not far from Tampa Bay, there is an immense spring, which has formed a pool perhaps a hundred yards wide, and of depth unknown—soundings have never found its bottom. At times the waters of this pool lie clear as the summer air, gradually deepening into the green shadows of its mysterious depths. Schools of great silver tarpon may then be seen, and they give the spring its name.

At other seasons its waters rise bubbling and gurgling not with heat, but from some sudden subterranean pressure. At such times the waters of Lake Butler, a mile away, are seen to fall. It is believed that there is some connection between the two bodies of water, and that the spring is an outlet for the waters of the lake in the rainy season.

The vicinity of this strange spring has always fascinated men. The aborigines have left their shell mounds all about it; and in modern times a neat little town, made up largely of winter residences, has grown up. Its banks have been parked and cemented, and it has been made a harbor for expensive pleasure craft. All about it are fashionable cottages and bungalows; children play upon its beaches; lovers peer into its wonderful depths—and see nothing but themselves. Far below, in its darkest crannies, the great silver tarpon still live and hunt as they have for countless centuries.

The 5-year-old daughter of a well known humorous writer appeared one morning at the breakfast table with suggestions of a cold beginning to manifest itself.

"Am I?" said Kathleen resentfully. "You said I was a little pig, yesterday."

Henry obeyed with a thrill as he realized that he was about to behold the scene of the famous classic of motor racing, where the best cars and drivers of the world were wont to compete once each year. He sprang again to his seat as the car rolled to a stop inside the gates that he had swung behind it, and looked eagerly at the long empty stretch of grandstands that they passed before they came to the tunnel under the track. Through this they rushed and up into the vast enclosure of the field, where he could get a view of the enormous brick track stretching like a ribbon for the length of the straightaway and swaying in a mighty sweep of banked brick around the curves. Desolated and barren as it was, Henry imagined that he caught the echo of shouting thousands as they cheered on the roaring smoke-hazed monsters and their famous drivers. If he could live to the day when he, too, would sit behind the hood of a racer and urge it on to victory and fortune! If he could drive! If he could drive!

"Take the wheel and give her a spin, bo," said the bored voice of Verrens. "Let's see how you push her."

He came to earth with a sickening shock, as he remembered his disability. He was on the point of admitting it when a wave of shame forbade him. He knew the car thoroughly; probably better than did this conceited mechanic who patronized him. A little nerve and will and manual skill was all that he needed to make him a driver. He would not acknowledge that he lacked them.

Half fearfully he rose to climb over the shifted knees of Verrens and edge into his vacated seat. He was aware that his heart was beating fearfully and that his skin was creeping on his spine while his throat and mouth were baking dry. But he stubbornly refused to yield to these symptoms and weaken in his determination. If ever he was to overcome them, now was the time to do it. After all they were merely exaggerations of the feeling he had when they came out over the country road and Verrens had let out the speed to thirty miles.

"I'm not much good as a driver," he stammered, finding difficulty in controlling his voice. "I've never done much at it."
"Well, take hold and let her out," replied Verrens tolerantly. "She won't bite you."

The engine had been left running and all he had to do was to mesh his gears and ease in his clutch. It was a simple operation and one that he was entirely familiar with, but in spite of this his hand shook and his arm felt weak, and the motion was, at first, absurdly feeble and then, in a panic, too abrupt. The gears clashed alarmingly and the car leaped viciously forward. He forgot his wheel and narrowly missed the boarded side of the pits as he swerved toward the gateway. Barely in time, he swung into the open way and rolled up to the smooth surface. But he forgot again, in his relief, to twist his wheel and nearly went into the wire fence across the track. He had to reverse and here again he was clumsy. Verrens watched the performance with a grin of derision.

Desperately he got the car turned approximately right and slowly headed it around the track. He crept along at a snail's gait, striving to overcome the numbness of his hands and their tendency to clasp metallically to the cord-wrapped wheel.
"Speed her up!" growled Verrens. "This ain't no funeral, is it?"
He swallowed hard and slid into high, but for some time he hesitated to open the throttle any farther. At last he responded to the disgusted look of his companion and pushed it open. The car picked up and spun ahead, while Henry clawed the wheel and held on desperately, guiding it rigidly on the curves.

"I guess," said Verrens coldly, "that you'd better let me drive this ha-k. It ain't much of a test that you're givin' her."
Henry gladly threw out his clutch and slowed down, painfully conscious of the fact that he was trembling and perspiring. Without a word, he climbed back to his original place and mopped his face with his handkerchief.

Verrens, not looking at Henry, shoved his gear lever forward, threw the clutch in and opened the throttle. The car leaped into its speed and swept madly around the curves and into the back stretch. Here was

Hatred, duplicity, love, remorse and self-sacrifice—all in the heart of one woman, all centered and focussed on one man, in one day. Such is the theme that gives Bessie Barriscale some rare acting opportunities, in the forthcoming Triangle features, "Bullets and Brown Eyes."

William Desmond is the masculine intruder who comes into the life of the heroine portrayed by Miss Barriscale, and is saved from a sudden and violent end at the hands of her relatives only by the fact that she decides she needs him alive more than her country needs him dead.

Two nations which have as yet no place on any map are revealed at war in this latest production of Thomas Ince, and some remarkable scenes of fighting with the most modern engines of warfare are promised.

"Ham and Bud" Perform Miracle

From England comes one of the most amazing stories of the motion picture in war times that has yet been chronicled.

It tells of a wounded British soldier, robbed of his speech by a gas bomb, and invalided home. He attended a picture theatre where a "Ham and Bud" comedy was being shown and was so amused by the comedians that his speech was suddenly restored.

Detailed accounts of the seeming miracle which appeared in English papers were forwarded to the Kalem Co., which has also received strong assurances from its England representatives of the authenticity of the story.

Charlie Chaplin In a New Role

Charlie Chaplin had a motion picture taken of him signing that new year's contract for $670,000.

Those who have seen the picture expressed disappointment. Chaplin went through the entire ceremony of signing without falling down stairs, upsetting the desk or kicking the other party to the contract on the ships. Several other persons were in the room, including a stenographer whom he did not kiss, and not one of them was assaulted.

Being annoyed by the presence of so many sharks during the time when they were "mermaling" in William Fox's Annette Kellerman picture, the girl swimmers employed a man to explode dynamite in the waters of St. Anne's Bay, Jamaica. At one of the banquets held by the mermaids, sharks' fins, prepared by a Chinese chef, formed the one best bet on the menu.

nearly fainted when he ran that test car up to fifty miles. Why, Lucetta, I could scream my head off whenever I so much as see a mouse, but I wouldn't feel a little bit anxious driving faster than that so long as Walt had the wheel. Many's the time I've ridden with him when he let her out faster than that and believe me, it was swell!"

"Walt Verrens surely ought to be a safe driver," agreed Lucetta. "Ain't he one of the best men that ever drove a Crescent and one of the finest drivers in the game? But, just the same, I'm just as glad he don't take me out in those cars for I know I'd scream fit to kill and be a regular spectacle if he went very fast. I must say that I don't much blame this Mr. MacDonald, and even if he hasn't got much nerve, he has very nice eyes."

No Wonder

There were two Browns in the village, both fishermen. One lost his wife and the other his boat at about the same time. The vicar's wife called, as she supposed, on the widower, but really called the Brown whose boat had gone down.

"I'm sorry to hear of your great loss," she said.

"Oh, it ain't much matter," was the philosophical reply; she wasn't up to much.

"Indeed!" said the surprised lady. "Yes," continued Brown, "she was a rickety old thing. I offered her to my mate, but he wouldn't have her. I've had my eye on another for some time."

And then the scandalized lady fled.—Chicago Herald.

There is a probability that City Attorney W. B. Naylor will be a candidate for the assembly on the republican ticket. This is to succeed A. E. Fredericks, who has announced himself for congress.

Season's Last Party
The Pythian Sisters held their last card party for this season in their lodge rooms this week. There was a large attendance and a good time was enjoyed by all.

The Pythian Sisters and the Knights are getting a great deal of pleasure out of their new lodge rooms. They formerly held their meetings in the Odd Fellows hall. Early in the winter they secured the rooms over Baumgarten's jewelry store and Hollister's music store, which they have fitted up, with lodge rooms, reception hall, dining room and a complete kitchen.

Local and Personal
Mrs. Gertrude Evans of Winona, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robbins at the Hotel Sherman.

Messrs. Hamilton and Stevens who purchased the old Catholic church, sold it this week to Mr. Rosenick. Mr. Rosenick is planning to tear it down and build a barn.

Rev. O. V. Wheeler of Milwaukee, who has accepted a call to the Baptist church of Tomah, will be in the pulpit on Sunday. Rev. Wheeler's family is expected the first of the week.

Mrs. L. W. Crall, who has been in poor health for several weeks, was taken to the hospital on Wednesday for treatment.

No clew has been found as yet to the thieves who stole from Mr. A. L. Butts farm the first of the week. About seventy-five thoroughbred Wyandots were taken. The robbers were tracked as far as the fair grounds and all clues lost from there.

The Dramatic Reading club will close their winter's study with a social evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Anderson on Saturday. Refreshments will be served and a program given.

Season's Last Party
The Pythian Sisters held their last card party for this season in their lodge rooms this week. There was a large attendance and a good time was enjoyed by all.

The Pythian Sisters and the Knights are getting a great deal of pleasure out of their new lodge rooms. They formerly held their meetings in the Odd Fellows hall. Early in the winter they secured the rooms over Baumgarten's jewelry store and Hollister's music store, which they have fitted up, with lodge rooms, reception hall, dining room and a complete kitchen.

WHY FAMOUS PASTRY COOKS USE KC BAKING POWDER

The patrons of our first class hotels and restaurants are exacting—they demand the best. Women go where the pastry and cakes are noted for their excellence. Men are attracted by hot bread and biscuits—when fresh and moist and light.

The pastry cook with a reputation uses K C Baking Powder because he knows that results are certain; every time everything is as good as his best.

Then, too, with K C Baking Powder he can mix the various kinds of batter before the rush of the meal begins and bake as needed so that every order goes to the table fresh and hot, yet the last he bakes are just as good as the first.

The reasons behind these reasons is that K C is really a blend of two baking powders. One commences to give off leavening gas as soon as moistened. The other requires both moisture and heat to make it active. Dough or batter will remain in a partially leavened condition for hours, and when put in the oven, will come up as light as if mixed a moment before.

For cookies, pancakes, doughnuts and the like, which cannot all be baked at once, K C is indispensable. For all baking the double raise makes doubly certain.

Follow the example of the professional cook and your baking will be equal to his.

DRINK A GLASS OF REAL HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Says we will both look and feel clean, sweet and fresh and avoid illness.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone whether ailing, sick, or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile, and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste, and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Wis., were visitors in the city on Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Taylor of Dubuque, Iowa, is spending the week with her daughter, Mrs. J. Evert, Jr.

"NO THANK YOU" CLUB TRYING TO REGULATE DRINKING

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 10.—"Well, let's have one more little drink before we go," is never heard here nowadays. The "No Thank You" club, the largest in the city, put that favorite expression of the early spring drinkers in the discard. Every member of the club, and some of the leading citizens belong to it, is pledged not to do any treating. The club has no intention of whacking the saloon business. But according to a report of the organization committee, it does believe that "the substitution of the non-treating system for the vicious treating habit would automatically nullify nearly all that is mischievous, and therefore illegitimate, in the liquor traffic and that it would tend to eliminate the constant political agitation of the prohibition question by correcting 'the main evil now associated with that traffic.'"

POSLAM RIGHT SKIN TREATMENT

Efficient, Quick-Acting and Harmless Under All Conditions.

Poslam, the quick-acting skin remedy, when spread gently over irritated skin, penetrates and relieves itching at once. The trouble responds to this needed antiseptic treatment, ceases to annoy and is soon seen to be under control. Poslam is harmless and should be called to aid whenever the skin is disordered, broken-out, itching, inflamed or irritated.

One month's trial of Poslam Soap—the soap of soaps for tender, sensitive skin—usually leads to its continued use.

RUBBER-TIRED WAR DOUBLES DEMAND AND BOOSTS PRICE

dustry which makes it indispensable to a long list of arts and industries. The present plight of Germany shows just how essential it is. That country is suffering from a severe shortage of rubber, because England has cut off the importations. The result is that many of the German hospitals are compelled to get along without hot water bags, ice caps, rubber sheeting, and rubber gloves. The lack of rubber gloves has resulted in many of the nurses contracting septic fever. The International Red Cross and Ambassador Gerard have both protested to England against the embargo; but the British war office is obdurate because of the great value of rubber for military purposes.

War Demand Biggest Factor

Indeed, this demand from a war zone is the most important factor in the rubber situation. Troops, supplies and equipment are all moved by motor and most motors run on rubber tires. England has sent about 5,000,000 rubber sheets to her hospitals, and an English firm has an order for 2,000,000 pairs of hip-length rubber boots to be used in the trenches.

Rubber is not an ingredient in any of the explosives; yet few of them could be manufactured without it. Dynamite workers wear both rubber gloves and rubber boots. There are about 150,000 high explosive workers in Great Britain wearing more or less rubber, and it is quickly destroyed by chemical action. Gas bags of Zeppelins and war balloons are also of rubber. A great deal of waste rubber in the war zone is not being reclaimed, either through junk dealers will doubtless do a big business after the war is over.

Guayule Rubber Grown in U. S.

Although the United States has no commanding position in the manufacture of rubber, it has done less than any other great nation to produce the raw material. Perhaps our most notable service in that direction is the experimental work which the department of agriculture is now carrying on with a small shrub called Guayule, which is native to Mexico, and which produces rubber of a low grade. Before the revolution in Mexico, quite an industry in the production of rubber from this shrub had grown up in Mexico, and in 1909 nearly 10,000,000 pounds of guayule rubber was put upon the market. Now, however, war has practically destroyed the industry. Guayule can easily be grown in Texas, Arizona, and Southern California, and there is no reason why it should not be the basis of a substantial industry on American soil.

Rubber is extracted from Latex, a milk-like substance which is formed in a number of tropical and sub-tropical plants. The Latex easily separates into two substances, one of which floats upon the other like cream upon milk. This cream of the Latex is the rubber. Unless the Latex contains at least fifteen per cent rubber, it is not profitable to work it. The best rubber tree is that known as Hevea, which is native to Brazil and has been successfully introduced into the Malay states and Ceylon.

Million Acres Cultivated

Until recently nearly all of the rubber used was gathered from wild trees, chiefly in the jungles of Brazil and other South American countries. Then the idea of cultivating rubber took hold of the imaginations of men, and there are now probably a million acres in cultivation. This cultivated rubber is of a higher grade than that which grows wild. At present, however, it will not repay the cost of cultivation outside of the zone extending about five hundred miles on either side of the equator, and agricultural development in this tropical country, where disease must be conquered first, is necessarily slow. The rubber zone includes much of Brazil, Peru and Bolivia, and all of Ecuador, Colombia, Venezuela and Central America. In Africa it includes the Congo basin, the Sudan, and the wilderness to the east. It takes in a large part of India, part of Australia, and the Philippines. In fact nearly all of the unconquered tropical wilderness of the world is prospective rubber land. It may be that the tremendous demand of modern industry for rubber will be the means of opening up these rich regions to civilization by luring the hardy and adventurous, just as the fur trade opened up much of Western North America.

MADISON, Wis., March 10.—Dr. William H. Allen, who conducted the university survey, has been heard from again. This time he has issued a circular, which is being mailed generally in Wisconsin, answering criticisms of his survey. He entitles the rejoinder, "Smashing the Looking Glass." One of the authorities quoted is Senator Edward Ackley of Chippewa Falls.

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, March 10.—Mexican issues were generally lower in the early trading on the Stock exchange today. Other stocks showed irregularity in a market that was cautious. Mexican Petroleum opened at 100, off two points; American Smelters at 100 3/4, off 3/4. Greene Cananea at 100 3/4, off 3/4. All of these recovered, however, in a short time. United States Steel sold at 84, up 1/4 and Baldwin Locomotive at 105 1/4 showed a gain of 5/8.

Trading was largely in Zinc and the war industrial issues during the first hour. American Zinc went above yesterday's high figure, selling at 88 1/2. Mexican issues showed greater strength than at the opening.

In the later trading Mexican issues again dropped back and Southern Pacific, which held solidly through the early hours, fell off slightly.

The war industrials turned and took an upward trend. Immediate following issuance of a statement showing increased unfilled tonnage United States Steel showed no change.

When news of the president's Mexican program reached the stock exchange the Mexican issues which had shown weakness through the earlier trading went upward with a bound. Batopilas, which had hung at 2 for months leaped to 2 3/4. Smelters went to above 103. War industrial held steady, but slightly below previous prices. The Coppers became more active and stronger. The market closed strong.

New York Money

NEW YORK, March 10.—Money on call, unchanged; time money, 3 per cent for six months; prime mercantile, 3 to 3 1/4 per cent; bar silver, London, 27d; New York, 56 3/4c. Demand sterling, 47 1/8.

FAMOUS CLOWN ENACTED DELIGHT OF KIDS BEFORE GAS SNUFFED OUT LIFE

NEW YORK, March 10.—Love for a pretty, wayward Broadway wail, undiminished ever when she repaid his generosity by robbing him, caused the suicide of "Slivers"—Frank Oakley, the clown, it was learned today.

Friends of Oakley today said he had been heartbroken because officials at the Bedford reformatory refused to let him marry the girl.

"Slivers" met Viola Stoll, the 17 years old, crying at the stage door of a theatre in Utica one blustery night in March, 1913, said a friend of Oakley's. "Hesent her back to New York and met her on Broadway a few weeks later. The girl was still 'up against it,' and prompted by motives of purest chivalry, 'Slivers' installed her as his housekeeper. While he was on a tour a short while later the girl closed the flat, disappearing with $5,000 worth of 'Slivers' jewelry. Despite his efforts to save her Viola was sentenced to three years in the Bedford reformatory."

"Slivers" went to the reformatory a few days ago and begged to see Viola. The matron refused. He sobbed all the way back to New York. Then he was found sprawled on the floor of his room, dead from asphyxiation."

"Slivers" daughter will bury the body of the famous clown.

NEW YORK, March 10.—"Slivers" the open gas jet bespoke the grim clown career was closed in tragedy here Wednesday.

The droll, slender master of Cap and Bells, who once reaped a harvest of thousands a week by making the children of two continents cry with laughter, committed suicide in a New York hall-bedroom because an old friend wouldn't lend him a quarter.

Known to thousands of circus followers as merely "Slivers," his body was taken to the morgue, as that of plain Frank Oakley. He died alone and penniless.

While the millions of little lads who loved him slept in the early hours of yesterday, their laughing friend with the grease paint curl on his forehead, unmasked the despair his buffoon's smile had hid.

In a pose not unlike a "fall" he used to do upon the sawdust to delight the youngsters, Oakley was found, pajama clad, sprawled upon the floor of a cheap hall bedroom just off Broadway.

The pantomime of death told "Slivers" story.

As eloquently as ever his wordless ball game made holiday crowds guffaw, the old clown's form upon the floor, the empty scattered flasks,

Plant Culture

Care of Geraniums

Geranium Plants that have been growing all winter, as well as those that have been stored away, should be given attention now, in order to have them in good shape for setting out in the spring. They must be transplanted and the long limbs shortened, to give the plant shape and vigor.

Almost any soil will grow geraniums, but a mixture of half clay and half sand, to which a little well decayed fertilizer is added will prove the best. In transplanting plants old soil should be removed from the pots and fresh soil added. In starting geranium plants small pots should be used, just large enough to well accommodate the roots. Between April 15 and May 1 they should be transplanted again into larger pots. To increase the plant stock cuttings may be taken from young growths. These cuttings if watered sparingly will root readily in sand or sandy soil.

While it is possible to grow fair plants in the home, by far the best plants for setting out are, of course, those grown by the expert florist, as he has every up to date equipment, knowledge and experience to grow them with a greater degree of ease and perfection.

BURN ON ARM IS BLAMED FOR FATAL BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Odd Question Put Up to Industrial Commission by Widow Who Asks Compensation

Can a burn on the arm cause Bright's disease?

This was the question left with the industrial commission yesterday afternoon at the close of a remarkable hearing held in the court house in behalf of Mrs. Christiana Smeevog, who is seeking full compensation for the death of her husband, an employee of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power Co.

Knut Smeevog was foreman of stokers at the local plant of the light company, March 29, last year, a pipe burst and he was seriously burned on the left arm from the elbow to the wrist. He continued at work, but a few months later developed Bright's disease, from which he died seven months after the accident, on October 21, 1915.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog; and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

LIND SAYS RAID INCITED BY FORCES ON AMERICAN SIDE

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 10.—John Lind, former United States envoy to Mexico, declared today that Villa's incursion was undoubtedly financed and inspired by interests on this side of the border. In a statement issued to the press he suggested the establishment of a neutral zone, thirty to forty miles wide at the border to be policed jointly by the two governments, as the best way to obviate border trouble. During the conversation, the Daily News reporter asked Mr. Lind if he thought a call for volunteers would be made as a result of the United States invading Mexico. Mr. Lind replied that the pursuit of a bandit gang caught red-handed does not constitute invasion.

U.S. WILL SEND ARMED FORCE INTO MEXICO

WASHINGTON, March, 10.—The Cabinet today decided to authorize Secretary of War Baker to order a punitive expedition into Mexico to capture the Mexican bandits who attacked Columbus, N. M.

President Wilson, it was said, was preparing a formal statement of the reasons for ordering the troops to move.

An official announcement that troops would be sent to take Villa was made by the president at 1:02 P. M.

At least 8,000 men will start the American expedition into Mexico, the war department said.

Secretary Baker left the cabinet meeting hurriedly at 12:15 and went directly to the war office before other cabinet members left. He is said to have followed instructions and it is understood that a message was to be sent to General Funston to order the troops over the border.

The president expected to make it clear intervention in not contemplated.

RAIDERS AGAIN
CROSS BORDER

COLUMBUS, N. M., March 10.—Border raids on American ranchers and farmers continued today.

Again invading the United States, Villista bandits this morning and last night crossed the border at several points between Columbus and Hachita, looting ranch houses, driving off rolling stock and destroying buildings.

There were no Americans murdered, according to telephone advices received here.

Reports to Colonel Slocum stated that Villa raiders had been completely cleared from American soil before noon.

United States soldiers on patrol duty reported large bands of armed Mexicans camped close to the border at several points. Just before daylight several bands, which figured in the raids today, recrossed to the Mexican side.

Bandits Estimated at 4,000.

Villistas estimated now at 4,000, were believed to be lurking within a few miles of the international boundary. Wherever visible, the American patrols were keeping a close watch on their movements. There was no indication of any attempt on the part of American soldiers to re-inva Mexico to chase the bandits.

Reinforcements from Fort Bliss have reached Victorio, N. M., where the inhabitants were in terror all night fearing a Villa attack. The first battalion of Twentieth Infantry detrained at Victorio shortly after 7 a. m. and pitched their camp at the edge of the town, close to the border.

Bands of Villistas were within a mile of Victorio early today and made no attempt to attack the hamlet.

THE PRESIDENT
MAKES STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Tense with suppressed indignation, the senate this afternoon postponed action on the Columbus, N. M., outrage despite resolutions of war by Senator McCumber of North Dakota and Senator Fall of New Mexico, and a bitter speech by Senator Ashurst of Arizona.

That this government had exhausted every possible effort to keep from intervening but that its peaceful efforts have been worse than fruitless and have only emboldened the bandits to further atrocities, the McCumber resolution called for immediate action.

Without discussing his measure, McCumber allowed it to go to the committee on foreign relations.

The white house statement follows:

"An adequate force will be sent at once in pursuit of Villa with the single object of capturing him and putting a stop to his forays. This can and will be done in an entirely aid of the constituted authorities of Mexico and with scrupulous respect for the sovereignty of that republic."

The statement issued by the president indicates that General Carranza has informed this government that he is entirely willing to have the United State act with him in putting an end to the Villa banditry.

Secretary Baker refused any statement as to the war department's plan on the action of the cabinet, but indicated that later he would likely have some statement.

Roller Feed Grinding Outfit

The new up-to-the-minute roller process of grinding feed saves you one-half of what it now costs you to feed your stock. Will grind twice as fast with same power, as the best burr or stone mill ever made and does not heat the feed. Has great capacity, very simple, grinds fine or coarse, requires little power, has no burrs or other parts to be constantly wearing out, also grinds corn-meal and graham. Will last a life-time. Pimples and Skin Eruptions Danger Signs of Bad Blood

It May Mean Eczema, Scrofula—The First Sign of Inherited Blood Disease

Pimples, scaly itching skin, rashes, burning sensations and Scrofula denote with unfailing certainty a debilitated, weakened and impure state of the blood. The trouble may have been in your blood from birth, but no matter how you were infected, you must treat it through the blood. It is a blood disease. You must use S. S. S., the standard blood tonic for 50 years, if you expect relief. For purifying the system, nothing is equal to it. The action of S. S. S. is to cleanse the blood. It soaks through the system direct to the seat of the trouble—acting as an antidote to neutralize the blood poisons. It revitalizes the red blood corpuscles, increases the flow so that the blood can properly perform its physical work. The dull sluggish feeling leaves you—the complexion clears up. Even long standing cases respond promptly. But you must take S. S. S. Drugs and substitutes won't do. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. Insist on the original. The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

DETECTING DORIS

BY JANE OSBORN

(Copyright, 1916, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Sometimes, do you know, you watch me as if you were a detective," said Doris Jones, as she was crossing the campus of Dudley college with her classmate, Lawrence Smith. Doris was unusually young to be a senior, and Lawrence, who had entered Dudley on advanced standing only at the beginning of the last year, was unusually old. That is, he was at least twenty-six years of age, and in his care-lined face, his occasional nervous gestures, no less than in the way he wore his business-like clothes, he looked more like a successful young lawyer or broker than a college student.

"Honestly, you do look at me in the funniest way, sometimes," Doris persisted, although apparently Lawrence did not care to discuss the matter. "And I have seen you look at other people that very same way. You must be interested in human nature?"

"Yes, probably it is that," Lawrence seemed annoyed or at least a little disturbed. Later, after they had walked almost to the girls' dormitory where he left Doris, he said, "Sometime I shall tell you why I am so 'interested in human nature,' as you call it. You will be surprised, I am sure." And then, lowering his voice—"In the meantime, little girl, don't even for fun say anything to any one about that strange expression of mine."

There were several things about Lawrence Jones that seemed to make him stand out from the other men of his class at college in spite of his obvious effort to mingle with the men. In the first place, even the professors wondered why Lawrence was doing undergraduate work at all—there is no post-graduate department at Dudley. For in almost all his classes he seemed, with no apparent effort whatever, to surpass the other men in his class—not so much through actual studiousness, but because of his greater maturity.

Another thing that puzzled his classmates was this: Apparently, from his manner and habits, Lawrence Smith was never without money, still, from his first day in college, he accepted work that only the poorest students usually would have considered worthy while. For instance, he acted as cashier during the late afternoon tea hour at the "Cozy Corner," a tearoom where the girls of the college, and occasionally the men, dropped in for refreshments. He got merely a pittance for this work.

But these peculiarities were no stumbling block in the way of Smith's popularity. In fact, he was one of the most active officeholders of his class. He had been elected treasurer at the first class meeting of the year and treasurer of the athletic association, though he had been put up for vice president of that organization. That was strange, too, that he should have asked for the lesser honor when he had actually been elected to fill the vice president's chair. His excuse was that he liked to keep books and that he didn't know the first thing about presiding. Well, anyway, he made a good accountant and never had the books of any college class or any other year's athletic association been better kept.

It was the evening of one of the first class dances of the season and Doris Jones and Lawrence Smith were "sitting out" one of the several dances that Lawrence had been permitted to mark on Doris' order. Doris sighed deeply.

"I do wish you would tell me now all about yourself," she said. "Of course I like you—yes, you know I love you—but it is hard not knowing all about you. Do you know, I sometimes feel as if I didn't know your name." She stopped suddenly and turned away from him.

"Suppose we finish out this dance," he tried to be at ease, but clearly he was not.

"Wait a minute," putting out a small hand which she closed around his wrist, "Lawrence, in that book of Stevenson's that you lent me I found the initials 'J. T.' I really sometimes wonder whether your name is Lawrence Smith."

"Can't you trust me—enough to know that it is all right—anyway?"

"Yes, yes, I can. Promise that."

WAY TO G IN FLESH

Conductor Tells How He Gained Flesh and Strength.

So many cases like the following are continually coming to our attention we want everyone in La Crosse to know that our offer still holds good to return money in every case where Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, fails to create strength, and build up weak, run-down, nervous, overworked men and women.

"I am a conductor on the Scranton Ry., and became run-down and tired out, lost my appetite, flesh and strength, so I had to lose a good deal of time from my work. A friend told me to try Vinol. I did so and rapidly regained health and strength, and yesterday I weighed and it showed I had gained 25 pounds since taking Vinol. I cannot say enough in praise of Vinol, for what it has done for me." G. B. Sorber, 1512 Vine St., Scranton, Pa.

About every other day we are publishing letters like this in La Crosse newspapers, about Vinol. They are guaranteed to be truthful and genuine, and show the good Vinol is doing all over the country.

ORANGE BLANC-MANGE

Heat a pint of orange juice; add enough sugar to sweeten, as some fruits need more than others. Pour in gradually two level tablespoons of cornstarch wet with two tablespoons of cold water and boil until very stiff; then slowly turn the hot mixture over molds and fill with the hot mixture. When chilled, serve with milk flavored with grated orange peel, or a custard made of yolks of eggs, a pint of milk and flour sufficient to make it creamy. Cook over hot fire until the custard coats a spoon; flavor with grated orange peel.

no special motive in adding this, but Lawrence had reason soon to attach special significance to the words.

In fact, it was the very next day that Doris passed Lawrence coming out of the office of the president of the college, the latter following the young man to the door with a degree of deference that was not usually extended to mere students.

When Doris passed Lawrence he started with a peculiar pained expression that she had never seen before. But he merely bowed cordially enough and passed on. That evening, after dinner, he called at the girls' dormitory and asked to talk with her in one of the small private reception rooms. Usually they chose a country walk in the afternoon for their confidential talks. These intimate reception rooms were especially unattractive to Doris.

"A few days ago," he began, "you promised to have confidence in me, and at the time I promised to have confidence in you. Doris it would take a good deal to shatter that confidence. You know I love you—and I always shall."

Doris first blushed and then turned pale. She was distinctly ill at ease and more so because she could see that Lawrence was scrutinizing her intently.

"I wish you would tell me a little about yourself, Doris. Be sure that I shall never reveal anything of it. Let me repeat, first, what I have already learned from you. You were born and brought up in that little lumber community you told me about. You went to the nearest high school five miles away. Your father was poor—he had lost considerable in California oil mines. I believe you told me. He still lives simply in the old place. Now is that all true, Doris?"

Lawrence frowned slightly. "I hope the meeting will be a pleasant one. You won't be hurt if I ask you another question. Is your father paying for your education?"

Suddenly Doris blushed and for the first time showed real annoyance. "Yes," she said. "That is—no; he is not!"

"From whom do you receive it?" Doris refused to answer. Lawrence pleaded with her in vain, but no more would she say.

"This is very hard for me," said Lawrence at length. "But since you won't help me by telling all, you know about it I am obliged to make a thorough search of your room. The president of the college authorized it. Let me do it informally this way and then I shall be able to help you out of what may be a very serious matter. I had hoped that you would clear the matter without this—but you have apparently some reason why you don't want to tell me the truth. Be sure that I will do everything, even to the limit, to get you out of this."

"More than ever you talk like a detective," Doris flung at him.

"I am a detective in the employ of the Federal government. It is a counterfeit case—" he was still studying her face, but she showed no added embarrassment. "My real name is James Titus. We traced these counterfeit bills to this town, then to the college and I entered college to work it down. It was about four years ago that the bills began to circulate, but we didn't get around to looking the matter up till last summer. A similar issue of counterfeit bills had suddenly stopped about eight years before. I've watched every bill that has been paid into you will trust me too," Doris had the class treasury, the athletic association, the tea room and the drug store. That is how I traced it to

Trembling, and with a face now pale, now crimson, Doris led James Titus to her room in the dormitory. She opened her wardrobe and silently brought out a suit case, which she opened and from which she drew out a heavy metal box which she unlocked with a key she wore about her neck on a long locket chain.

James drew from the box a roll of bills and examined them carefully with a pocket magnifying glass. A look of satisfaction at having achieved the object of his quest first showed on his face, and then a look of pain as he looked at the defunct figure at his side.

"My father didn't send them. I wanted to go to college, no one knows how much. But then father lost his money and he couldn't send me. That was the summer before I was ready to come. Then one day when I was working out in one of the shanties about two miles from home in some woodland that father owned I found a trapdoor. I went down and there I found these. It was twelve hundred dollars—enough to take me through college. Of course I couldn't tell that they were not real. All I knew was that the cabin had been occupied by a queer old sort of hermit who had died without leaving any heirs. I know that for the few pieces of silver he left in his house we could find no claimant. I suppose it was very wrong of me, but I thought because I found that money it was mine. I am so sorry. Shall I have to be in prison all my life?"

The detective drew the frightened

girl toward him as if she had been a child making a confession.

"No one but you and I and the kind-hearted president of the college shall know. That can be arranged easily. When I make a confidential report of this to the authorities I am sure there will be no further investigation. In the meantime finish our year here and then—the very first day you are through you must become Mrs. Jimmy Titus."

"Has that borrowing friend of yours dropped out of sight?" "Oh, no; he manages to keep in touch with me."

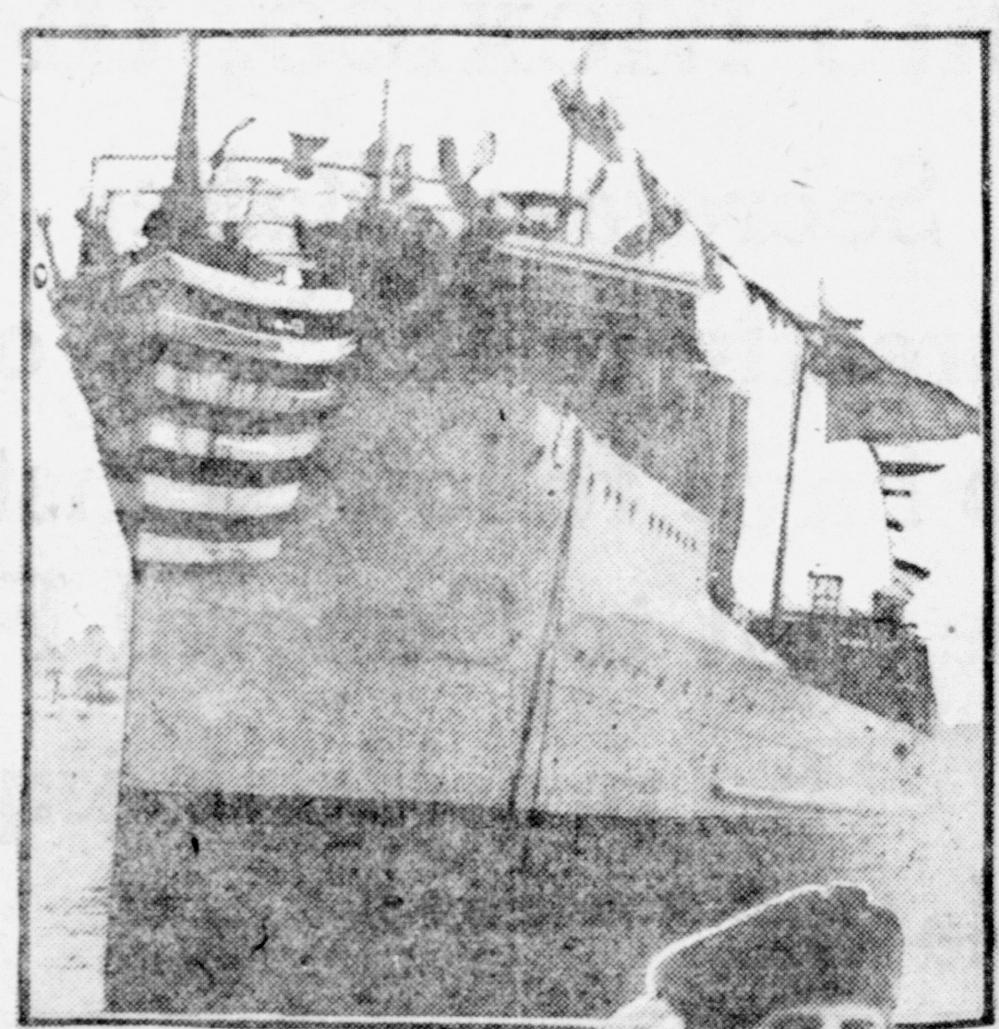

YOUR FRECKLES

Need Attention in March or Face May Stay Covered

Now is the time to take special care of the complexion if you wish it to look well the rest of the year. The March winds have a strong tendency to bring out freckles that may stay all Summer unless removed. Now is the time to use othine—double strength.

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails. Get an ounce of othine—double strength, and even a few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the smaller freckles even vanishing entirely.

HOW SHOCKING

"Don't worry when baby frets," he said. "It's just like a man's swear-ly to express pent-up emotions."

BADGERS TIGHTEN HOLD ON FLAG BY TROUNCING MAROON

(BY IRVING M. TUTEUR)
MADISON, Wis., March 9.—(Special.)—Wisconsin tightened its hold on the conference basketball championship by defeating Chicago 24 to 12 in the local gymnasium last night.

The Badgers entered the game decided favorites, and true to predictions, emerged victorious after one of the hardest games ever seen in the Wisconsin armory. So fast was the pace set that Townley, lanky center on the Maroon quintet, collapsed near the close of the second half and was carried off the floor.

Wisconsin took the lead at the beginning of the game and was never headed, although hard pressed throughout. The first half ended with the Badgers on top 9 to 5. A succession of three brilliant baskets by Olsen at the opening of the final period practically cinched the victory for the Cardinal.

Playing Off Form
Although Wisconsin defeated the Maroons, the Badgers did not put up their customary game. Levis and Chandler were especially off form and the entire team at times appeared more or less dazed. Occasional bursts of speed and periods of short, snappy passing enabled Wisconsin to pile up its ringers.

Wisconsin lined up with Haas,
Levis, Chandler, Olsen and Smith who were opposed by Parker, Shafer, Townley, George and Rothermel for the Maroons.

Must Beat Northwestern
Saturday night's game at Evanston in which Wisconsin and Northwestern clash, is the critical game on the Badger schedule. Should the Cardinal team defeat the Purple aggregation it will be the undisputed champion of the conference, and the fourth flag in five years will have been brought to Madison by a Mean-well five.

Defeat by Northwestern would result in a tie for the first position between the two teams. Wisconsin will take the floor a slight favorite, due to its victory over the Evanston men at Madison early in the season.

Students at Madison are irritated by the refusal of the Northwestern authorities to save any seats for Wisconsin rooters. Nearly 200 who had planned to accompany the five to the Illinois city Saturday, learned yesterday that all of the 1,500 seats had been sold to Northwestern students and that they would be unable to obtain seats at the game.

FAMILY REUNION HELD BEHIND BARS

MADISON, Wis., March 9.—(Special.)—For the first time in the history of Dane county an entire family is behind the bars of the county jail serving time for misdemeanors. When Allen Young was sent to jail yesterday for violating his parole on a charge of theft, the family of mother, father and two sons was reunited behind the prison bars. The youngest son, George Young, was sent to jail one month ago for the theft of copper wire. George stepped out of the Green Bay reformatory into the county jail and there was little sympathy for him. Two weeks ago the mother of the boys, Eva Gromey, who had remarried and was subsequently divorced, was arrested with her husband and sent to jail for disorderly conduct.

JOINS UTILITY

RACINE, Wis., March 9.—The city of Racine is now in partnership with the Milwaukee Electric Railway & Light company, as the common council has formally agreed to pay the corporation six per cent interest on money invested and the cost of furnishing the city with street lighting, previously done by contract. This is said to be the first agreement of its kind in the United States and is equal in part to municipal ownership.

HARRIS ARRANGES CARD FOR NEXT FIGHT SHOW HERE

Kannia Will Be Ousted as Matchmaker But Will Continue to Hold
His Stock

The Kannia A. C. of La Crosse will hold its fourth show in Yeomen hall
March 30, Fred W. Harris, president and acting matchmaker said today, announcing at the same time that the card will include two six and two ten round bouts, the opener, probably, to be between local men.

Walter L. Kannia, who led in the organization of the fight club last fall, is to be dropped as matchmaker, Harris said, although he will continue to hold stock. A meeting of stockholders for that purpose was to have been held today. The reasons for the tentative action, Harris said, are that the club cannot bear the expenses incident to the work of Kannia. Harris would not comment on the rumor a reorganization of the club is imminent.

or feverish children because it will act thoroughly and can not injure.

WOMEN SAVE $5 USING GASOLINE

Dry clean your dresses, suits, silks, yokes, gloves, draperies, etc.

Save $5 to $10 by doing your own dry cleaning. Here is a simple and inexpensive way to clean and brighten children's coats, suits, caps, woolen garments, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, furs, neckties, ribbons, silks, satin, lace, yoke, silk shirtwaists, draperies, rugs, in fact any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it readily dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking as clean and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

Any woman can do home dry cleaning in a few moments at little cost and save lots of money. It is as simple and easy as laundering, and you can't make a mistake. Your grocer or any garage will supply the gasoline, and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap. Then a wash boiler or large dishpan completes your home dry cleaning outfit. As gasoline is very inflammable, be sure to do your dry cleaning out of doors or in a room away from fire or flame, with the windows left open.

INDIANA PRIMARY FAILS TO SHOW UP OPPONENT FOR KERN

State Republican Meet Must Name Candidate for the Senate; New Has No
Majority

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 10—Indiana republicans must wait until the republican state convention,
April 5-6, to decide upon a candidate for United States senator to oppose Senator John W. Kern. This was practically assured Thursday when returns from 2,070 precincts out of 3,177 gave Harry S. New a lead of 5,161 over James E. Watson.

With a majority of all first choice votes required to nominate, the 18-927 thus far tabulated for Arthur Robinson appeared to make a majority for one candidate impossible.

Additional returns increased the big lead of James P. Goodrich for the republican nomination for governor. Goodrich believed his majority may reach 40,000. His opponent will be John M. Adair, who easily won the democratic nomination.

Slap Second Choice

Meanwhile all concerned are taking a swat at the new primary law and especially the second choice voting feature which has made the count slow and complicated.

The unofficial figures for 2,720 precincts at 10 a. m. were:

James E. Watson, 79,173.
Arthur Robinson, 21,194.

ors, Booth Tarkington. His "Gen-

RE-OPEN BRANDEIS CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The reopening of the Brandeis campaign became known when Senator Weeks of Massachusetts informed the senate committee he was advised there are still further charges to be made.
He did not say what they were. On good authority it was learned that Senators Cummins, Fletcher, Chilton and Walsh will recommend Brandeis' confirmation and Clark of Wyoming will oppose it.

JAPAN PROBING ALLEGED GERMAN ACTIVITY IN CHINA

TOKIO, March 10.—The extent to which German wire-pulling is responsible for present political troubles in China is being thoroughly investigated by Japanese agents, according to advices received here.

German consuls in southern China, officials assert, have given moral support to the revolutionists in their section of the country, especially in Yunnan province, where Yua Shi Kai's authority has been almost completely overthrown. Germans are suspected also of having stirred the Mongolians, in the far north, to their attempt at a southward sweep, with a view to re-establishing the old Manchu regime.

The Japanese theory is that Germany plans a big commercial and political campaign in China after the war and wants a Pekin government it can dominate completely.
The Berlin government is said not to regard Yuan as sufficiently plastic and to be bent on overthrowing him.

Just how far the Japanese propose to go in opposing this program is not generally known here but the impression is that whatever steps may be deemed necessary, will be taken by the authorities.

The Japanese inquiry is in charge of General Aoki at Shanghai. He has agents under him, however, throughout the whole country and the nature of the mikado's policy, it is believed, will depend on the report he is expected to make soon to Tokio.

NORMAL MEET ON WITH FOUR TEAMS IN THE RUNNING

Mondovi, Galesville, Arcadia and Cashton Fives Meet in Semi-Finals Tonight

MONDOVI TEAM A FAST ONE

Cashton Loses First Game But in Triangle Play Wins Place in the Semi-Finals

The normal sectional tournament opened yesterday with six teams participating. Onalaska, and Bangor dropped from the running, Mondovi, Galesville, Arcadia and Cashton remaining in the race. These teams tonight will clash in the semi-finals and tomorrow the final contest will be held to determine which school shall represent this district in the state title tournament at Milwaukee.

Virouqua, Westby and Kendall failed to show up by last night so they are out of the running.

The fast Mondovi aggregation, the heavy Arcadians and the Galesville team, which shows a combination of speed and weight, loom up as being undoubtedly the strongest teams entered. Cashton is also in the running but was defeated by Arcadia in the afternoon.

Every team entered appeared in a game after classes at the normal yesterday. The first game was between Cashton and Arcadia, the Arcadians winning 28-13. Galesville defeated Bangor 36-14. By the third contest which approached the supper hour, much of the crowd had departed, but they missed seeing one of the fastest teams in the tourney in action. Mondovi cleaned up the Onalaska squad 43-11.

Cashton Wins Triangle.

In the evening the losers of the afternoon games played to determine which of the losers would go on the semi-finals which are to be played tonight. Cashton winning. The games last evening were played in a triangle effect. First Bangor and Cashton played for a half. Then the winner, Cashton, played Onalaska for a similar period, and following this Bangor and Onalaska played for a half. The team possessing the greatest number of points was to go in the games tonight. The triangle games resulted in these scores: Cashton, 31; Onalaska, 17; Bangor, 15. Accordingly, Bangor secured last place in the tournament and Onalaska won the next to the last position by two points.

The Cook Quit

And we were "up in the air" about it because the wife was a school teacher before I married her and knew nothing about cooking. She tried her best and meant well I guess but her first attempt at a meal convinced me she knew more about "Plutarch's Lives" than she did about frying eggs.

So we had just about decided to eat in restaurants when suddenly my wife struck a bright idea. "Why don't you call 323 either phone and insert a help wanted ad for a cook in the La Crosse Tribune?" she said. And I did.

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. 2 1/2 oz. concentrated essence mentholaxene and mix with a pint of syrup made of pure sugar and water. It should break up your cold in a very little while. I have known cases of chronic bronchitis and severe coughs to be permanently relieved with this simple and inexpensive remedy.

"Madame" writes: I have pains in my back, headache, and chills and fever all the time. My ankles swell and I have dark, scaly skin and puffs under my eyes. A friend of mine suggests I might have some kind of kidney trouble.

Answer: Your symptoms clearly point to a diseased, inactive condition of your kidneys. What you need is a kidney stimulant and tonic. The best thing you can take is balwort tablets. Start using at once.

"Run Down" writes: "I'm all run down, have fever, and my complexion is a sight. I have a boil coming on my face and I have had one on my hand. I don't sleep well at night. I am so nervous and headachy. I am always constipated—have coated tongue and bad breath."

Answer: Your blood is impure, as indicated by the boils and bad complexion. Three-grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur) will clean your system and tone your blood. Start using them at once. They are sold in sealed tubes.

"Ella" asks: "What do you suppose is the matter with my hair? It is all coming out and my scalp is covered with a kind of rash. It itches terribly. I am afraid I will lose all my hair."

Answer: Wash the hair, and while still wet apply by rubbing thoroughly into the scalp some plain yellow minyol. Rinse out and continue this treatment after washing for about two weeks, at which time your scalp should be healthy and your hair bright and glossy.

"Plump" writes: "I weigh 175 pounds and I am much too plump for my height. May I safely reduce to about 135 pounds?"

Answer: You may safely reduce your weight several pounds by using five-grain abalone tablets. They are a harmless and successful flesh reducer. Sold in sealed tubes, with full directions.

"L. E." writes: "I want something to relieve me of a cold, tonsillitis, bronchitis and a severe cough."

Answer: To relieve you of cough and cold affecting the tonsils, bronchitis or the air passages, I suggest that you secure from your druggist

AN EASY WAY TO END CATARRH FOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of This Dangerous Disease.

The reason why so many people who suffer from Catarrh never seem able to get cured is that they are continually seeking the momentary relief of sprays, douching, greasy creams, ointments, etc. Such things do open up the swollen nostrils and clear the head temporarily, besides stopping for a while the disgusting blowing, hawking, spitting and choking, but they never cure. To drive out Catarrh for good you have got to get down to its real cause. Catarrh is a germ disease. The air is always full of catarrh germs thrown off by one person and absorbed by another and when the system does fail to throw off such germs they find permanent lodgement in the nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly.

The germs of catarrh can be best destroyed by inhaling the pure medicated air of Hyomei (pronounced High-o-mei). This splendid and powerful combination of oil of Eucalyptus with other healing agents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe its air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which leading druggists supply with every treatment. This medicated air is certain death to the germs of Catarrh and drives them completely out of your system and when the germs are destroyed the catarrh with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. Even two or three minutes use will give refreshing relief, while, if you will use it two or three times a day for a few weeks it will completely banish catarrh and every symptom of catarrh. As Hyomei is pleasant to breathe and is always sold by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.

I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. E. Yost, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

KIDNEY TROUBLE LEADS TO TERRIBLE TORTURES

Hundreds of sufferers from pains in the back and sides, bladder and urinary disorders, lumbago, rheumatism, dizziness, puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, nervousness, tired or worn-out or headachy feeling, don't seem to realize that the greater part of all sickness today can be avoided by keeping the kidneys working properly. If you suffer from any of the many agonies that accompany weak, clogged-up or diseased kidneys, you should not neglect yourself another day and run the risk of serious complications. Secure a package of Solvax, the wonderful new kidney remedy which is very inexpensive yet acts quickly and surely on the seat of the trouble. You'll be surprised how entirely different you'll feel in a very short time.

It doesn't matter how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used. The very principle of Solvax is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without some beneficial results.

Solvax is pleasant to take, gives quick relief and has been so uniformly successful that nearly all leading dealers in this vicinity will in future sell it under a positive guarantee of relief or refund the money. No other kidney remedy we believe ever had a large enough percentage of cures so that it could be sold in this manner. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of Solvax.

There is no time like the present to do a thing that ought to be done. If anyone has kidney trouble today is the best time to begin curing it.

MULDER-WILLEY

A very happy occasion was the wedding of Miss Grace Willey of Holmen and Mr. Fred Mulder, son of Mr. B. J. Mulder of New Amsterdam, which was solemnized on Tuesday evening, March 7th, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Willey. Some twenty-five or thirty close friends of the family assembled at the old Willey homestead which fully sustained its well known reputation for hospitality. Decorations of white ribbons and smilax, with sweet peas for the tables, carried out the color scheme and gave the house a festive air.

The bride was attended by the Misses Mary and Anna Mulder, sisters of the groom, while the groom was supported by Stephen and Harry Willey, brothers of the bride. Miss Helen Merrill of Onalaska played the wedding march, and the bride's father gave her away. The Rev. Malcolm Magnusson, pastor of the Presbyterian church of New Amsterdam, officiated, using the simple but impressive ring service.

The bride was gown in white embroidered chiffon and carried white roses. The bridesmaids wore pink chiffon.

Congratulations, bountiful refreshments and delightful social intercourse filled the time till the small hours of the morning. The bridal party left amid a shower of rice, the wedding bell ringing merrily under the car, while sundry venerable and highly esteemed old shoes dangled from the rear.

Bethany Center To Inaugurate Tooth Brush Campaign

Following the example of other cities, La Crosse is to have a tooth brush campaign—at least the neighborhood in which Bethany Center is located will take part. Dr. Esther Farrand and members of the D. A. R. will have charge of the contest.

This movement is being started here because it has proved of such value in places where it has been tried out. For instance, take the case of Cleveland, Ohio. Here a tooth brush brigade was started and because it was the first one, careful data were kept of the general health and activity of the children both before and after the teeth were cared for, and it was learned that with improved mouth conditions the scholarship, deportment, and general health of the child improved. Many other cities have taken up the matter, all finding the same result—and now the children at Bethany Center are to benefit in the same way.

Miss Schick states the contest is open to all those enrolled in classes at Bethany Center, as well as all neighbors and friends of the Center—to men, women and children. It will open Saturday night with pictures showing various aspects of the subject and a short talk by Dr. Farrand explaining in a general way the need of proper attention to the teeth. Members of the D. A. R. will be present at this time and a list made of all desiring to enter the contest. A tooth brush will be provided for each person entering, who does not have one at the time.

Following this opening talk there will be, from time to time during the next six weeks, talks and moving pictures and slides on the care of the teeth. Dr. Esther Farrand will arrange dates on which she will talk to the children, and will give one talk to mothers so they may better help the children in this important item of daily life. All interested may attend these talks whether they have entered the contest or not. The parents of children who are taking part are urged especially to come out to see the pictures and hear the talks.

It has been asked, wherein lies the element of "contest"? Just here—to every person who faithfully uses his or her tooth brush according to directions, from the opening of the contest until Easter, there will be a prize of some sort.

All Those Lovely Arguments Wasted Opponents Lacking

All loaded and primed with choice arguments, three Franklin club debaters who were prepared to prove that Uncle Sam ought to double his navy in five years, were disappointed last night. They got no chance to use their arguments. The negative side did not show up.

Arthur F. Holmes, Harry W. Robinson and Roy V. Ahlstrom were the disappointed affirmative speakers. They were to have met Rev. Finch A. Clarke, W. J. McGaughran and Professor H. G. Hayden.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Berlin Charges Angola Colonists Lured the German

Governor to Imprisonment

LONDON, March 10.—Co-operation of Portuguese troops in the campaign for the conquest of German East Africa, the last of Germany's colonial possessions to resist capture, will be the first result of Germany's declaration of war on Portugal.

News of the declaration only reached London this morning in an official statement wirelessly from Berlin. In addition to other treaty violations alleged by Germany, it was stated that the Portuguese in the colony of Angola induced a German local governor of German Southwest Africa and several men to go to the town of Naulila and then imprisoned them. Several of the Germans were shot in trying to escape, the German government declared.

The German foreign office further alleged that Portugal bought war materials from the allies, including a torpedo boat from the British, cut German cables and seized the archives of German Vice Consul Mosmedes without reason.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

Save your hair! Double its beauty in just a few moments.
25-cent “Danderine” makes hair thick, glossy, wavy and beautiful.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks’ use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.
Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately debates the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and ragged, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton’s Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that’s all —you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

Care of the Baby

THE GENERAL CARE OF BABIES (Prepared by Nellie Maxwell of the Department of Farmers’ Institutes of the University of Wisconsin.) “Upon the health and strength of the babies, the glory and greatness of our nation depend.”
Regularity in feeding is very important; from the beginning he should not be fed oftener than every three hours up to ten at night and one feeding during the night. After four months no night feeding, after ten o’clock, should be given.
After the child is six months the feedings should be made four hours apart and only five meals during the twenty-four. Boiled water may be given freely. Never allow the baby to sleep with the nipple in his mouth or suck on an empty bottle. If he does not take all his feeding, what is left in the bottle should be thrown out, never warmed again for a later feeding.
Hot weather alone does not kill babies, but hot weather and spoiled food cause many deaths. Too much care cannot be taken of the baby’s feed. If the baby is unfortunate enough to need bottle feeding, buy the best and cleanest milk you can get. Never buy milk that comes from a cow that has not been tested for tuberculosis.
See that the milk is always kept cool. Bacteria will not work in feed milk. Milk that is not kept cool readily spoils and this makes the baby sick. When the baby is sick, stop feeding him and send for the doctor, give him instead of milk, water that has been boiled and cooled or barley water.
Do not permit anything used about the baby to be touched by flies.
Nipples should be washed and soaked in boric acid before putting on the bottle. Bottles should be washed, scalded and kept corked with cotton, even when the milk is warming, only removing the cotton to put on the nipple.

Deny Canadian Women
Right to Practice Law

QUEBEC, P. Q., March 10.—The fight waged by Canadian women during the past few years to remove the barriers which prevent the practice of law by women in the Province of Quebec has been given a severe setback in the legislative assembly. By a vote of seven to two, the members of the legislation committee, which is itself made up of lawyers, rejected the measure which would admit women to legal practice. The two members who stood by the women are Col. Armand Lavergne, the brilliant orator and lawyer, and Lucien Cannon, who launched the debate in the assembly. One of the most interesting speakers in behalf of the measure was Dr. Ritchie of England. She propounded the question, "Have men the moral right to refuse progress to a woman who qualifies herself in an honorable calling?" She declared that women have been forced to enter the struggle with men for their living. The aspiring women lawyers are not giving up the fight, and they declare that the present decision only delays the day when women can practice law in Quebec.

Endowment Fund

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Mrs.
Ellen Spencer Mussey, founder and College of Law, where young women lawyers are being trained, reports that the endowment fund which women lawyers are raising for the steadily growing. Virginia and Maryland women are among the heavy contributors. There is also a melting pot, into which jewelry is being contributed for the girl lawyers.

busily engaged in completing plans for aiding the lepers to secure some enjoyment in their lives of misery.
She is interesting her friends in raising a fund which will furnish the means of benefitting the 3,000 lepers on the island. Miss Everhart was in the Philippines on a visit, and while touring visited the colony. The sanitation, the food and the comforts are meagre, and although many of the lepers can read, there is nothing there for them to read. To better their conditions, provide a few delicacies and supply reading matter is the main idea of her voluntary campaign.

EARLY SPRING STYLES

THE NEW HATS

THE new hats are really fascinating. We are to wear a variety of close fitting small hats for general wear that are admirably adapted to their purpose, and for most part are ribbon trimmed. For dress occasions hats vary from the small toque of flowers to the wide brimmed picture hat that is becoming to many women. Which is the best, must always depend upon the individual. Fashion offers a sufficient variety to suit all. For the big hats, leghorn is extensively used and there never was a more attractive straw.

8972

TAILORED suits and simple garments are among the most important new features with the coming of any season, and here are excellent models for each.

The suit shows a number of quite new features. Its material is old blue whipcord and the trimming is ivory white broadcloth. The two make an admirable contrast and a thoroughly good effect. White as trimming for color will be extensively used throughout the season. The cut of the coat is new and interesting. The sleeves make a part of the side portions, consequently they suggest the kimono idea. They are easily slipped on and off and they do not rumple the gown.

The circular skirt portion which is attached flares gracefully and attractively. The skirt shows the new feature of plain front and plain back with plaits at the sides.

The gown is made of the favorite striped taffeta, the panel being cut on the cross, and the trimming is bands of satin. It is a very smart gown, yet an absolutely simple one. It can be worn for almost any daytime occasion for it will not be over dressy for the luncheon and it will be quite dressy enough for the afternoon tea. The pockets are interesting and they are extended to form trimming portions. Often, the collar, cuffs and pockets will be lined with a bright contrasting color to give a note of brilliancy. Such a gown as this one is perhaps best made from silk but there are some very lovely silk materials that show combinations of silk and wool threads that would be pretty, and later the same model will be good for the washable materials, its simplicity commending it for this use. There are stripes in every fabric from silk to cotton so that the striped idea is easy to carry out. Among the plain colors, grey is a favorite. This gown made of grey taffeta or grey faille with collar, cuffs and pockets lined with American beauty red and trimming of grey silk braid would be exceedingly smart.

NOVELTIES to be found in the NEW YORK SHOPS

A variety of materials in awning stripes, notably, mohair, admirable adapted to summer skirts and cotton gabardine in a variety of attractive colors.

Voile in infinite variety of colors and designs. All-over effects that are fashionable and charming and make extremely practical summer costumes.

Bordered materials in a very interesting and unusual variety. Bordered voiles in both simple and elaborate designs and bordered organdies that are the dainties of all things.

A variation of the favorite corduroy in white and in colors. The rib is narrower than corduroy and the material is wider. It is known as Society Cord and is offered in thirty-six inch width.

Bodice garnitures of satin and of silk embroidered with silk and with beads. Many of them are completely transforming and will convert a plain blouse into an elaborate one.

Collar and cuffs suits of bright colored silk designed to be worn with ones of quiet tones.

Chemisette and neck garnitures of voile and of organdie in such bright colors as rose and blue and pink that are charming over white costumes.

Sports suits in infinite variety. Some with coats of white cotton gabardine and skirts of the same material in awning stripes, others with gay coats and white skirts and still others with wide coats and stripes of blue and white finished with wide hems of the white.

Boys suits in a very charming variety and in an unusual assortment of color, notably green linen with trimming of black.

Very charming costumes for the tiny boys which consist of trousers of rose-colored linen or gabardine with blouses of white smocked with rose.

FASHION HINTS from the FASHION CENTRES

By MAY MANTON

JUDGING from the outlook, this coming spring and summer may well be known as a jersey season for we have jersey cloth in silk, in wool and in cotton and put to a great variety of uses. It is really a very attractive material as well as a practical one and it is constantly gaining in vogue and in favor. The silk jersey cloth is familiar as glove silk and a very dainty and beautiful material it is. At the summer resorts it is being much exploited in combination of plain and stripes, that is to say, the skirts will be made of the striped silks while the coats will be of the plain, and these coats may be genuine buttoned down the front, or what is known as slip over sweaters and only short openings at the neck. Both models are correct and both are smart and all silk costumes are admirably well adapted to the warm weather. The material is very light of weight, delightful to wear and altogether satisfactory. Sports coats of the cloth also are worn over white gowns. Black, navy blue and American beauty red are favorite colors for such use. Ordinarily, sports coats of this sort are made in genuine sports style buttoned right down the front, but light colored belts are gaining in favor as finish, although the sashes still hold and are liked by the younger contingent. Various models are to be seen for the skirts, but the side plaited skirt is especially well liked and is singularly effective beneath the sports coat. The wool jersey cloth is somewhat heavier and warmer, but admirable for cool mornings. It is liked for sports costumes. White with grey trimmings is held exceedingly smart for this coming season is to be a white one and white appears in every possible way, but for golf which inevitably means tramping somewhat destructive to the white costume, the wool material is shown in green and in various colors. It is handsome, it is durable and it seems perfectly adapted to its use. Altogether, the jersey cloth is a distinct addition to the available materials. In its very latest form it is shown in cotton both in plain colors and in Roman stripes and the Roman stripes are very lovely in contrast with the white, either jersey cloth or linen or the gabardine that is such a pronounced and deserved favorite.

We might almost be said to be living in an age of silk and of cotton for those two materials outnumber all others, although the wool is appearing in very attractive forms and linen always has a definite place. Taffeta and silks of the sort are available for many uses. They can be treated simply and adapted to morning wear or to the street, and they can be elaborated to be suited to the evening costume. The gros de Londres is a pronounced favorite and a very beautiful silk it is, somewhat more costly than taffeta but the latter holds its place. The glove silk already mentioned is available for a great many simple needs and the cottons are marvelously, even ravishingly beautiful. Many of them are more costly than the silk and they show the most wonderful colors and exquisite embroidered effects. They are indeed the most fascinating of all things. Many of the voiles are embroidered with colored mercerized threads which give a real silk effect and are as charming as can be. A beautiful one is white with a check obtained by simple drawn work design, and with flowers embroidered over the surface at generous intervals. It is a beautiful material and a material that can be made into exquisite gowns. Incidentally, it is a costly material, too, but it is cotton and the more we glorify cotton the greater should be the prosperity of many of our own states. A great deal of white will be worn both for the spring and the summer. All the advices from the Riviera and from Palm Beach emphasize that fact. White broadcloth, white wool gabardine and white serge all are exploited. In many instances they are made really elaborate with trimmings of silk and embroidery and what not. A notable costume that has been much discussed, is made of ivory broadcloth combined with tele de negre satin, the corsage and upper part of the skirt being of broadcloth richly embroidered in silk floss and combined with crystal beads. A good costume on simple lines is of white broadcloth. The hip length coat is broadened by means of a gusset set in the seams and the skirt also shows deep gussets to accentuate the fullness. Satin cuffs finish the sleeves and there is a deep cape-like collar of white satin while the buttons are of novelty crystal.

Buttons make an important feature of all spring costumes. They often are elaborate, they always are carefully chosen and they aid greatly in producing the general effect.

To some extent, it probably is true that the white is being exploited because of a slight shortage in colored dyes but that fact is not alone responsible. White is generally becoming, white is always beautiful and the white materials are really ravishing in their beauty. The combination with dark materials and embroideries may be made to produce sufficiently elaborate results for any occasion.

A pretty novelty is the carrying of bags of white broché silk with these coat suits of white broadcloth, serge and the like, and frequently the mountings are of black onyx with white silk braid for the handles.

Coat suits of taffeta and of the gros de Londres which has something of the same character will be much worn. They are, of course, of the dressy afternoon sort but are not made with over elaboration. The silk is at its best trimmed with itself with tucks or folds or frills and the best designers realize that fact.

Tussah is expected to be extensively used throughout the entire season. Both it and taffeta are really excellent for spring costumes for they are comfortable throughout the summer as well unless the day proves exceptionally warm. Some exceedingly smart models sent forth from good houses show tussah with trimming of taffeta and the combination of materials is most effective. A typical costume of the sort is made of tan colored tussah with untrimmed skirt and loose coat that extends well below the hips. The coat is finished with a wide band of dark blue taffeta and with capes of the taffeta that in turn are edged with the tussah. The treatment is good, the costume is a practical one but the idea could of course be carried out in any preferred coloring. Suits of white tussah with trimming of soldier's blue are very pretty, spring-like or almost summer-like in effect. The tan color with blue is smart and it is easy to think of many ways in which the two materials could be used. Bands of velvet are always pretty on taffeta.

STYLES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRLS

WISE mothers use simple models for the little girls. This spring they will wear the most attractive frocks that are made of washable materials for the school room and of light weight wools and silks for dressy occasions. For the girls of twelve and fourteen, coat suits are smart made on perfectly simple lines. Pockets make an interesting feature of those suits and the girls are sure to be delighted with them.

The one illustrated makes a good example. The material is French serge in a medium shade of blue and the collar and trimming are of broadcloth in white, and white on color is to be extensively used throughout the season.

The little girls dress shows the tendency toward fitted bodices with full skirts. In the picture, it is made of blue linen with collar cuffs and belt of white linen embroidered in a simple design, and embroidery, fancy stitching and all forms of needle work are exceedingly smart for the spring and summer dresses.

Taffeta is used for a great many purposes, and could be so treated as to be youthful enough for the quite little girls. It is employed both for dresses and for coats. Poplin is a favorite material of the season and poplin coats are very charming and attractive for dressy occasions. Many of them are finished with collars and cuffs of batiste embroidered by hand and mothers who find needlework an agreeable employment, will be able to give the very smartest possible touch to the child's outfit by simply utilizing that talent. Every kind of embroidery is fashionable and smocking and fancy stitchery of all sorts are being extensively used as finish for children's garments.

For the school room, the linen and gingham, galatea and materials that can be washed are considered far more hygienic and are far more fashionable than wool. The new output is exceedingly interesting and shows a really wonderful variety of colors and designs. Cotton gabardine is a beautiful material and an exceedingly available one for it can be put to many uses. It would make a good summer suit, it is admirable for the older girls skirt to be worn with thin blouses and it is charming for dresses that can be made in tailored styles.

Chicago Theaters

Crowds Flock to See "Experience"
"Experience" at the Garrick theater has now entered upon the fourth month of its remarkable engagement in Chicago, with no sign whatever of the patronage diminishing. In fact, owing to the enormous demand for seats, the management has announced special matinees on Friday, March 17th (St. Patrick's Day) and on Thursday, March 23rd and Thursday, March 30th. These special matinees are arranged because it is now practically impossible to purchase seats for any matinee performance unless ordered far ahead. In addition special Lenten parties are now being organized by many churches and Sunday schools, and parties of 100 or more can secure special reservations by applying far in advance to J. J. Garrity, manager of the Garrick Theater.

WATCH SORE THROATS

because swollen glands or inflamed membranes often affect other tissues and lung trouble easily follows.

As Nature's corrector of throat troubles the pure cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is speedily converted into germ-resisting tissue; its tested glycerine is curative and healing, while this wholesome emulsion relieves the trouble and upbuilds the forces to resist tubercular germs and avert the weakening influence which usually follows.

If any member of your family has a tender throat, get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion to-day. Physicians prescribe it to avert throat troubles, overcome bronchial disorders and strengthen the lungs. No alcohol or harmful drugs. Always insist on Scott's.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-32

So many clergymen have endorsed "Experience" and recommended it as a great instrument for good in the community, that these Lenten parties are the natural sequence of the approval of the church. Now that Lent is here, it is recognized that "Experience" is one of the very few plays which can consistently appeal to church people, and it is a remarkable tribute to the play that these Lenten parties should be organized under the auspices of churches and Sunday schools.

The stay of "Experience" is unlimited at the Garrick theater, and for that reason mail orders can be received and filled far in advance. Special attention is paid to orders from out of town.

This week "Experience" enters upon the 101st performance of its run, this event being tonight's presentation. It is now well on the way to another milestone in theatrical history, and it is confidently expected that the play will be given at least 250 times before the season terminates. Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturdays.

"Town Topics" a Big Hit
The coming of "Town Topics" to the Chicago Theater, on Sunday, March 5th, marked the last word in theatrical prodigy, for this big musical spectacle is the most gigantic entertainment ever brought out of New York.

The original cast of this production, when "Town Topics" was produced at the Century Theater, New York, last September, was $150,000, and with the exception of one scene, which required the revolving stage of the Century Theater, the entire production was brought here by the Messrs. Schubert. It required ten or more baggage cars to transport it to this city, and all day to set the scenery in the theater. The traveling company numbers over 150 persons, and in certain scenes there are several hundred persons on the stage. One scene alone—"The Fashion Shop"—represents an outlay of over $50,000 in the gowns worn by the manikins. But "Town Topics" does not depend upon its gorgeousness for its success, for it is a comedy spectacle to a great extent, as is evidenced by the cast of players, nearly all of whom were in the original cast and includes the funniest of funny women, Trixie Friganza, Bert Leslie, the king of slang; Lew Hearn, fresh from his triumph at the London Hippodrome; Bonita, famed in "Wine, Women and Song"; Wellington Cross and his dainty partner, Lois Josephine; Lillian Herlein, the prima donna; Marie Lavarre, Artie Mehlinger, Peter Page, Mabel Blaine, John Johnstone and Jimmy Fox.

Then, too, there are over sixty lovely girls, and twenty boys who can buck and wing, and sing. "Town Topics" is in two acts, with over a dozen elaborate scenes and sets. Some of the sets, such as the Polo Grounds in New York, are the most massive ever attempted. The twenty musical numbers are all written by Harry Orlow, while the book is the joint work of Harry B. and Robert D. Smith, and Thomas J. Gray.

There's nothing like an obstacle for getting in a man's way.

IF YOU WORRY, READ THIS

Worry never brought any good to anybody. But you say, "I don't worry because I want to, I worry because I can't help it." Or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognizes this fact without being influenced in any way by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular medical man alive. But he can not do it because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured by the patient himself. That is why you should write today for the book "Diseases of the Nervous System" and read the chapter on "Neurasthenia." So many people have read it and written back, "This hits my case exactly, I am giving the treatment a trial and being benefited," that the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., has had a lot of these books printed and will send you a copy free on request. Ask for a diet book also if your stomach is off.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a non-alcoholic tonic, particularly suited for nervous, neurasthenic people. Your druggist sells them or they will be mailed postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

CHASEBURG CREAM MEN LET MACHINERY CONTRACT TO FIRM

Ripener Is Placed in Creamery; Contract Also Let for New Ventilation System

CHASEBURG, Wis., March 10.—(Special.)—Late Tuesday afternoon, officers of the local creamery closed a contract with the J. G. Cheney company of St. Paul, to install a new ripener in the creamery. Mr. Campbell of Beaver Dam, who represented the Cheney people, was authorized that the new machine is one of the first of its kind to be placed. He also stated, that the new machine costs $300 more than any they, or any concern have installed previously.

The ever increasing business at the local plant has made the new machine a pressing necessity.

To offset the ever present dampness found now in the building, another contract was closed very recently, whereby the King company of Owatonna, Minn., is to equip the creamery with the latest King system of ventilation. From what could be learned the ventilation system will be placed by April first and the new machinery within two weeks.
